

The Results from 15 Million Postal Requests

Tony Quinn reveals the secret of how to use your mind to have the life that you want.

I was originally inspired to become involved in Postal Requests through reading about the results of a man called Harry Edwards. Edwards ran what was known as "The World Centre for Healing" from Guildford, in England. Between 1948 and 1974 his centre dealt with 15 million HEALING letters and he received anywhere between nine and eleven thousand letters a week, up to half a million a year. Mr Edwards kept records of his own results and he also consulted the records of others who were also involved with similar healing systems. In general he found that in the region of 80% of those who send in postal requests for healing experienced improvement while 20% did not respond. Of those who improved one third reported complete recovery. This is particularly interesting because Edwards' records showed that few people wrote for minor complaints. Many were not responding to medical treatment or had been declared incurable, some were emergency cases with severe injuries suffered in accidents (Data from Edwards' book published in 1974).

No meetings

Edwards never met with the people he healed instead the results came about through using what he called "the thought directive" resulting in what he referred to as thought energy. This he believed could work at a distance. He advised people who wanted to send healing to others to relax themselves as much as possible and then let their thoughts turn towards the person who was unwell. To think about the nature of the illness almost as though they were telling their thoughts to someone who was listening in. He also advised that the whole approach be kept as simple as possible and to hold thoughts of the person receiving healing and returning to good health. Only a few minutes were necessary.

Edwards stressed the importance of absence of effort. Above all he advised that the mind must be kept calm and relaxed and that people should avoid fervently and emotionally imploring God to heal the person who was ill. This he believed stressed the mind, created confusion and prevented a successful outcome. Edwards stresses the importance of the absence of effort. He would occasionally meet a relative of someone who was very sick and having heard the details of the illness, he would promise in sincerity to place the sick person on the healing list that evening, but forgot to do so. It would then transpire a day or so later that the relative would come to him in gratitude for the healing that had taken place. Yet, in fact, he had done nothing more than listen in sympathy, though he believed that this itself could help. He also pointed out that there were many cases where a friend of a sick person sat down to write a postal request letter and posted it the next day. This meant that two days had passed before he received the requests. In the meantime, the patient's trouble goes. The lesson from this, according to Edwards, is that from the time of writing the letter the writer was somehow involved in causing the desired result to come about. He believed that when healing letters are written the thoughts of the writer are focused on the particular healing outcome that was desired and in turn when the healer applies their thoughts they are also directed by the healing. Somehow, these thoughts which are being directed, bring into operation the healing process. So there are two minds therefore focused on the desired outcome.

Educo Postal Requests.

Our own Postal Requests has been going for over 20 years. It's scope has broadened to include: Health, Healing, Success, Business, Self and Life Improvement requests. The word Educo means to draw out from within. Our aim is to teach people how to use their minds to obtain the goals they want. In a nutshell, we believe that if you take all of your mind power and focus it on a successful outcome then, providing there are no opposing thoughts, you dramatically increase the odds in your favour. The real purpose of Postal Requests is to open peoples' minds to a new approach to living and to encourage them to think in this fashion. That is, to only focus on what you want while not allowing any mind power to dwell/focus on what you don't want. I encourage you to just do this for 1 day and discover the life changing benefits. It's not hard to do, most people find it easy to give their mind power and attention to stress, worry, problems. Now, instead, just apply the same mental intensity to your goals. I continually point out to people, "the difference between success and failure is a small switch in your way of thinking".

Please realise that you can have the life of your dreams by putting into practice what you are reading here. Burn the following into your mind. Say your total mind power consists of 10 units, if 3 units are taken up with the successful completion of your goal and 7 are taken up with thoughts of failure, worry, fear etc then you will fail. Keep doing this and you will never draw out (Educo) your awesome, yes awesome human potential. You will only see this potential when you apply all of your mind power to your goal. This is exactly what the world's greatest achievers have learnt to do. If you want to live your life to the fullest you must learn to do this also. So, remember then, the life transforming secret is just to clear your mind and only focus on the successful completion of your goal.

The major difference.

The major difference between our Postal Requests and that of others is that our emphasis is on you bringing about the result. For example, when a person makes a request for themselves or another we (1) send them information on how to apply their minds to achieve their goal, (2) provide telephone help lines, where when necessary the person can call for further information and encouragement, (3) the person also has the option of coming to one of our centres for an

Your Educo Postal Request Team

Tony Quinn & Aideen Cowman

Results from Users of the Educo System

Cancer

For many years I have used the Educo Postal Requests system with wonderful results. Recently my husband was diagnosed with a cancerous tumour on the bowel. He was scheduled for an operation and the indications were that he would need a colostomy, which is normal in these circumstances. I decided to use the Educo Postal Requests and every request I made for him came about exactly as he wanted. His operation was a success and he didn't need a colostomy. His cat scan was also clear. His recovery was so fast that he was out of hospital and driving around only four days after the operation in great form. I have used this system to help me achieve the perfect results in exams and for general life improvement. Getting the backup support from Tony and the team has enabled me to hand over problems and keep my mind in a positive state. I truly recommend this system to everyone.

R.S., (North West).

Childhood Asthma

I am writing to tell you about the wonderful results I have had using your Educo system. I have been using it for many years for myself and others for better health, success in career and self-improvement. I have found it has enhanced my life in the most positive way. A year ago my 3 year old son Shane started coming down with colds and chest infections one after another. We brought him to the doctor and antibiotics seemed to help for a while. Then he was diagnosed with asthma and given a steroid inhaler to use. There was a slight improvement but he was still not getting better. I then put him on the Postal Requests and the results were amazing. The coughs and chest infections cleared up and he had no difficulty with his breathing so he could stop using the inhaler. Now he is full of life and a very healthy child with no recurrence in the past year. I found using the system gave me great peace of mind. Knowing the Postal Request team were working with me helped me to relax and not be uptight about the situation.

Martin O'Neill, Dublin 16

individual or group session, (4) finally, myself and Aideen Cowman also apply our minds to the request for a successful outcome. Ultimately we want the person to use this approach in their everyday life.

Educo for everyone.

Our aim then is to provide the necessary information so that anyone who wants can learn to use their minds for best results. This information is freely available in most issues of this newspaper. I've just given it to you. Back issues can be obtained for free from our health stores and centres. Free talks and video material are also continuously available. Training in the Educo approach to using more of your mind is available through, Postal Requests, Successful Living Sessions, audio tapes, video seminars, right up to personal clients that I work with on a one-to-one basis. Such clients have made the decision to take 2 to 6 weeks out of their lives to learn how to take control of their own minds. They want to run their minds so as to get the most out of themselves and life, in short to realise their potential. Personally I am in the enviable position of having a job of exchanging new lives for old, giving people the tools, in the form of "Mind Technology", and then watching the magic happen as they experience the power of their minds. These are people just like you who want to live the lives they are currently only dreaming about. I'm here to tell you we can make it happen together. Whatever point you are at - start now to use this information to be all that you can be.

Tony Quinn.